Store offers discount in food drive effort

Times-Herald staff report/

Posted: 10/22/2009 02:30:31 AM PDT

The Food Bank of Contra-Costa and Solano is holding a food drive at the Old Navy clothing store in Vallejo.

Through Sunday, Old Navy will provide a 10 percent discount off customers' entire purchase if they bring nonperishable food items to its Vallejo store, 105 Plaza Drive.

Some items that can be donated include the following -- ready-to-eat canned fruits and vegetables, canned juice, low sodium canned soups, peanut butter, jelly and salt-free crackers, trail mix in airtight bags or containers, compressed food bars, dried food, whole grain cereals, beverages in foil packets or boxes, pet food, and at least a three-day supply of bottled water.

The Times-Herald permits postings on its website so visitors may comment on topics or engage in on-line discussions. Most visitors have abided by simple terms of compliance that make these threads interesting, provocative and enlightening. However, when visitors resort to hateful, vulgar or personal attacks or statements, the experience not only is lessened for others, it often drives from the site many people who might have something beneficial to say. This includes children. We strongly urge that visitors abide by simple rules of decorum, including avoiding profanity and hate messages. We continue to reserve the right to remove any postings, and subject the poster to removal from future postings. Thank you for your cooperation.
